VIOLATED THE STATE LAW.

Mr. Crawford's Action in Discharging His Free Silver Clerks Condemned Throughout the City.

No incident of this presidential campaign has aroused the interest of the people of St. Louis to such an extent as the notion of Mr. Dugald Crawford, proprietor of D. Crawford & Co.'s department store on Broadway and Franklin avenue, in discharging twelve men for the plain and expressed reason that they proposed to

The Post-Dispatch presented the facts Sunday morning, stating them tersely and with care that no injustice should be done to anyone. No other paper in St. Louis printed one line about the matter. The others were informed of the facts, but they ignored them. They feared to offend

Mr. Crawford's proceeding was discussed Sunday almost to the exclusion of other topics. Few persons attempted to excuse it. Men and women of every political faith were shocked by the act of the merchant, The Post-Dispatch has been flooded with ing the paper's courage in presenting the facts and excoriating other journals for their abject and palpable cowardice.

The Democratic State Committee took steps immediately to have the law'enforced against Mr. Crawford. A thousand dollars were subscribed to a fund to defray the expenses of prosecution in ten minutes after the committee met. Eminent counsel was retained without delay to conduct the prosecution, and the opinion is well nigh universal that Mr. Crawford will be legally punbeen held and resolutions of an ominous character have been passed. Informal gatherings of ladies have resolved to contribute their share to the people's rebuke by patronizing only such establishments as do not

The Crawford case is regarded as Toere is no disposition to treat Mr. Crawford unfairly, but there is a determination that he shall get exact and absolute justice.

When the Sunday Post-Dispatch reached Democratic State Headquarters in the Planters' Hotel Sunday and the story of dear to an American citizen.

Planters' Hotel Sunday and the story of Mr. Crawford's discharge of clerks was read great indignation was shown. And as soon as Democratic citizens had read it they hastened to headquarters to insist that the law should be upheld and D. Crawford punished. Within a few hours after the Sunday Post-

Dispatch was published over $1,000 had been subscribed as a prosecution fund and ex-Gov. Johnson had been engaged to represent the committee.

Moses R. Wetmore and C. D. McClure each subscribed $500 to the fund and others

It is likely that by Tuesday, at least, $2,000 will have been subscribed.

The Post-Dispatch received scores of letters Monday, saying that the writers would gladly contribute to the prosecution fund and urging that something be done to protect American citizens.

Among others, three working men called and left small contributions. W. K. Gordon gave 50 cents; another laboring man gave a half dollar, and still another from the Twenty-sixth ward gave 50 cents.

Democratic headquarters Monday were crowded with citizens who had come to add to the storm of indignation and to show their appreciation of the stand taken by the State Committee and the Post-Dispatch.

"And we propose to see that in Missouriall violators of the law are treated alike."

Ex-Gov. Charles P. Johnson, who has been retained by the Democratic State Committee to prosecute Tr. Crawford, began taking the statements of the discharged men in his office Monday morning. S. D. Porcher, James McNeil, Stephen G. De-Veaux, P. W. Gradwahl, J. W. Wren, Phil Freundlich and William J. O'Hanlon were on hand and gave details of their conversation with the dry goods merchant when he discharged them.

When Gov. Johnson was seen by a PostDispatch man he said:

"I have been requested by the State Democratic Central Committee to look into the discharge by Mr. Crawford of a number of his men in a most brutal way. I have now examined six or eight of them and according to their statements there never was a greater outrage perpetrated upon American citizens, as far as their rights to entertain such political opinions as they see fit and to vote as they please, than this action in both manner and language of Mr.
Crawford. His language was coarse and insulting enough to exasperate any one.

"In no instance can it be shown that these employes were at all active in their adovcacy of Mr. Bryan. They had no discussions among themselves even that attracted attention or merited interference.
They realized their position, Many of them were the employes of years. They had devoted their time and labor to Mr. Crawford for years and recognized the necessity for discretion in regard to political matters.

"It seems that all the information possessed of the political opinion of these discharged employes was obtained by quietinvestigation, instigated in Mr. Crawford's behalf. There is not a single case wherein any one of these could be accused of the exhibition of sny undue feeling or zeal in the advocacy of his opinions. They are

It is apparent that some one was keeping notes of any expressions they made regarding their opinions. It looks as if they had been watched and a list prepared of those who were supporters of Bryan and then they were unceremoniously and in language both humiliating and insulting, discharged from their situations.

"Some of them would hardly believe that are willing to strike at every right that is dear to an American citizen.

"Scenes like these, efforts to intimidate voters and frighten men from doing what they think is just are enough to make any patriot flush with indignation and go to show that this contest is really a fight for the overturning on the one side or the preserving on the other of the liberties which have been vouchsafed to us under our form of government.

"The papers supporting Mr. Bryan have called attention time and again to instances of intimidation in various lines of business and presented proofs of it, and yet papers of an opposite political opinion have excused and denied it, taking no means whatever to stop it—in fact rather encouraged it by treating it so lightly.

"It would lead one to think that there is a good deal of anarchy on the other side if we believe that all our dearest rights under

It was quite late, about 9:15, when the incident occurred and I have no doubt it is explained by the facts I have stated and that an injustice would be done to say that the gentlemen were angewed. One of the ushers told me, too, that they all came in together, just as they went out, but that on account of the crowded cendition of the church he was compelled to give them seats in various parts of the house.

"There was nothing in my remarks to anger the most ardent advocate of free sliver. I was very careful as to that. I presented the arguments advanced by the sliver people in as fair and conscientious a manner as would have been done by one of them, and I am sure that anyone listening would have been perfectly satisfied. I did the same with the arguments of the gold standard people; then gave my opinion as to which preponderated.

"These gentlemen, too, did not leave until they knew that my lecture was at an end. They went out just after I had said, indicating that I was concluding. 'And, new, after this long discourse. went to Democratic Headquarters.
Several of the men were not interviewed Saturday night. These made their statements without reserve.

William O'Hanlon was a clerk in the men's furnishing goods department. He had worked for Mr. Crawford for eleven years. His father, Daniel W. O'Hanlon, was employed in the store for fifteen years and at the time of his death three years ago was superintendent of the entire establishment.

Mr. O'Hanion said: "Shortly before noon Saturday I was standing behind my counter. Mr. D. Crawford said to me: You are one of those silver men. You are going to vote for Bryan and ruin my business. You are in favor of flooding the country with 50-cent dollars."

"I asked Mr. Crawford where he got his information that I was a silver man. He did not answer.

"Then I told him that I was not sure how I would vote and that he seemed to know more about by business than I did." Well, he said, 'II Bryan is elected you'll be out of a job. Then he walked away.

"In a few minutes he came back.

"He came up to me and said: 'You are an Anarchist. You have been preaching silver all over the house."

"This statement was untrue and I told Mr. Crawford that he had been misinformed.
"John Crawford, his son, came up and told

The old man would not listen to reason.
He said to me, 'You are all Anarchists. Go and tell-your Irish friends that I said so. Get your money and work for some silver and tell-your Irish friends that I said so, det your money and work for some silver man."

"I went down to the cashler's office and found some of the other men there getting paid off. Until then I thought I was the only one discharged.

"I have no idea how Mr. Crawford got his information. He knew that I had always been a Democrat and that my father was a life-long Democrat. I never talked politics about the store. On Oct. 7 the question was put to me whether I had registed. I said that I had and intended to vete. I was not asked how I would vote. "John Crawford was in the habit of going around the store and arguing the money question with the men. Whether he did this to draw them out I cannot say."

John Crawford had charge of the department in which Mr. O'Hanlon's house early Monday morning and asked him why he had not reported for duty. Mr. O'Hanlon told him that he had been discharged, and now that he was out he intended to stay out. Young Mr. Crawford tried to induce him to to back to work, but in vain.

A few minutes later I was told shat Mr. Bryan, the cashier wanted to see me. He gav me my salary and told me that Mr. Crawford had told him to notify me that my ser ices were no longer needed. I asked why Mr. Bryan said he supposed it was for the same reason that other silver men had beel dismissed, but I had better see Mr. Crawford for an explanation. I found Mr. Gra vford in his office.

"I said: I have been told that you have discharged me. Mr. Crawfor I. Is it tue?"

"Yes, said he curtly.

"Yau, I ask why?" said I.

Phillp Unterberger was not at home when it was decided to thank the Workingmen's Bryan Club, and to visit the Democratio headquarters and tender their services to the Executive Committee.

They concluded to leave the matter of the prosecution of Mr. Crawford in the hands of the committee, bolding themselves in readiness to testify when called on.

The conduct of the men was marked by the temperate manner in which they discussed their dismissal by Mr. Crawford.

They had no word of abuse for him and made their statements calmly and without any manifestation of choler. They seemed to think the facts were strong enough.

The following communication was drawn up and signed:

And then he proceeded to show perfect familiarity with all the details of the story. Some men who lead busy lives have things read to them by trained persons employed for that purpose.

"What do you think of the action of the Democratic State Committee in retaining Gov. Johnson to prosecute you for violation of the State law?" the reporter asked.

"Hayen't thought about it—didn't know it had been done; hadn't heard of it."

"Mr. Crawford, what did you mean in the statement made in a morning paper when you said it would have been better for the discharged men had they come to you instead of airing their grievances in print?"

"Well, now, what would you think was meant?"

"Well, now, what would you think was meant?"

"Why, that if the men had returned and promised to vote for McKinley you would have reinstated them."

"No, sir. That is all wrong. It is all a mistake. You are making a mountain out of a mole hill.

"But fire away, fire away. 1 have been employing men for thirty years—almost before Colonel Jones was born. I never asked a man his religion or his politics; or to vote for my candidate."

"It is true that Mr. John Crawford went to see several of the discharged men to ask them why they had not shown up. Monday morning?"

"It is not. I don't believe he did. If he did, I know nothing of it."

Mr. Crawford declined to discuss any phases of the question, and when informed that he had missed some interesting developments by falling to read the Post-Dispatch, he beat a nervous tattoo upon his desk and said again: "Fire away; fire away!"

AGAINST THE RAILROAD.

Judge Caldwell Defines Their Duties Regarding Vestibule Doors.

Judge Henry C. Caldwell handed down an opinion in the United States Circuit Court Bronson against the receivers of the North

Mr. Bronson is a citizen of St. Paul, Minn. He took a trip over the Northern Pacific. The train was vestibuled and at 11:30 'clock one night while passing from the rear sleeper which he occupied to the front coach, the train gave a lurch. He fell against one of the outside vestibule doors. The door had not been fastened and he fell out. The train was passing over a trestle twenty feet high. Bronson in falling fractured his limb. He alighted in a stream of water. The trainmen did not notice his fail, and as it occurred in the country he did not get help till daylight.

He sued for $10,000 damages, alleging neglect on the part of the company in not keeping the vestibule doors secured. The jury found for the defendant.

Judge Caldwell reversed the decision. He said the company was not compelled to maintain vestibules, but when they have them it is their duty to keep them secured.

the party. In his opinion Judge Clement says: "The political name of the National Democratic party is substantially the same as the name Democratic party, and infringes upon the right of the use thereof by the political party known as the regular Democratic party.

The matter will at once be taken before the Appellate Division for further argument. At the Board of Elections several days ago the Commissioners refused to put the names of the Shepard party nomines on the ballots under the head of the National Democratic party. A writ of mandamus is applied for to compel the Commissioners to do so.

Tammany Hall will start the real hard work of the canvass, and the election district captains will make a house-bo-house and floor-to-floor campaign.

John C. Sheehan has had several conferences with the district leaders and impressed upon them the necessity of Tammany getting out its full vote, thus giving Bryan a substantial majority in this country. According to the reports already received, Mr. Sheehan believes New York will give 40,000 Democratic majority, but he will be in a better position to make an estimate when the canvass of the captains is completed. In many of the districts yesterday the leaders were in consultation with their captains and final instructions were given to them regarding the work that is expected of them between now and election day.

Protection to Voters.

The laws of the State of Missouri protect every citizen in the exercise of the right of suffrage. Severe penalties are provided in case of intimidation, coercion or corruption.

The Democratic State Committee has reliable evidence of the flagrant violation of this law. To the end that this intimidation, coercion, and illegal interference may cease, and that every citizen may cast his vote in accordance with the dictates of his own conscience, we have retained legal counsel and will vigorously prosecute every violator of this law, no matter by whom the offense is committed—Republican, Democrat or Populist.

Citizens of the City of St. Louis have subscribed ample funds to defray the legitimate expense of prosecuting violators of this law, and the Democratic State Committee will as far as is in its power protect every man in the exercise of his elective franchise and vigorously prosecute every person who by intimidation of the committee will be a committee of the co tion, coercion or other unlawful means undertakes to prevent any man from exercising the sovereign right of an American citizen exercising the sovereign right of an American citizen.

Carrie Zimmer says that during the evening her brother was in unusually good humor and seemed full of his trip to New York. There was only one reference to his love affair and after that nothing was said until the trio returned.

Little Carrie wanted to remain on the car and ride down to her home, a few blocks further south, but Zimmer and Miss Dietzmann insisted on her getting off with them. The trio stopped at the gate.

"I've got this to take with me on the trip," said Zimmer, drawing a revolver from his hip pocket.

He pointed it out toward the river. Both girls put their arms about him and tried to take the gun away.

They gruggled for quite a while in the rain and the darkness. Then, in a pause for breath, Zimmer said:

"Take my right hand Tillie and let's say good bye once and for all, and then I'll go away forever."

The girls released their hold of him and putting his arms about Tillie Dietzmann's neck he kissed her face repeatedly.

SHOT THROUGH A DOOR.

**A Frightened Woman Fatally Wounded the Typar-old daughter of John L. Short at Conway yesterday evening. Mrs. Hoss was awakened from a nap by someone rattling at the door of her room. She called several times, and, receiving no answer, she concluded that the intruder was a negro from whom she had received a fright some days ther to the City Hospital. The police removed Zimmer's body to the Morgue.

At the hospital Dr. Sutter performed laparotomy on the girl and removed the bullet from the abdominal cavity. He entertains slight hopes for the girl's recovery.

She was sinking Monday when seen at the hospital. She said she told Zimmer not to come to see her any more, because mutual friends had told her he was slightly off in his head. She recalled his threats, but never for an instant dreamed that he would attempt to kill her.

The boy's grandparents confirm M'ss Dietzmann's statement of his mental condition. They adopted him fifteen years ago when his father died, he had a prolonged spell of sickness when he was 10 years old and following that he had a running sore on his leg for several years. His infirmity made him peevish. As he grew robust in body he seemed to become lightheaded.

He cared little for work but was given to talking big about the fine situations that were offered him.

Within the last few months his grandfather says he has been gambling and had plenty of money and good clothes.

Over a year ago they turned him out because of his refusal to work. He went to the country but retured after the cyclone. It was then he met Miss Dietzmann and has been about the neighborhood ever since, though he did not reside at his grandparents' home.

Zimmer was 21 years old. His sweetheart will be the same age next Saturday.

Alkire, who has been a barber about the Station for over a year, was walking through the waiting room when he saw Mrs. Baker nursing an 8-months-old baby that was sick. He did not know Mrs. Baker.

Apparently moved by sympathy he went over, petted the child, talked to the mother and was soon seated beside her, and she was telling him the troubles of her unhappy life.

When the train gates were opened Alkire carried the sick child out for the mother and the gateman believing him to be an escort allowed him to pass on through to the train.

What the Encyclopædic Dictionary is.

It contains over 230,000 defined words—hearly twice as many as the largest "unabridged"—giving the history, derivation, speling, pronunciation, and varied meanings of each legitlimate English word. It is now accepted as AN UNQUESTIONED AUTHOR. It's wherever the English language is spoken.

It is one of the best of all Encyclopædias, because PRACTICALLY USEFUL as well as the latest and most scholarly. 50,000 Encyclopædic subjects, the Britannica has about 77,000. JUST THINK OF IT! The whole range of human knowledge condensed for your INSTANT USE by such world-famous scientists as Huxley, Proctor, and a hundred other educators of hardly less renown. It is a TIME SAVER for busy men; a COLLEGE EDUCATION for plodding students; a BRAIN DEVELOPER for ambittous mechanics; an inexhaustible treasure house of information for each member of every family. It easily takes the place of any half dozen other reference books that could be named. It is truly a FAMILY NE. OESSITY.

WE NEVER SELL OUR OPINIONS. The greatest "scoop" ever scored by St. Louis newspaper was that of the Postspatch Sunday morning in the publication of the facts regarding Dugald Crawford's discharge of such of his employes as support Bryan. Neither the be-Democrat nor the Republic printed word concerning this matter of such reat importance and vital public interand which is destined to stir the pubmind the country over. The Post-Dispatch published the fact not alone because of its value as news, but because of the principle involved in the act, which is worthy of public connation. The people can be trusted to strike at wrong when they see it. It is the duty of a newspaper to let them see it. Both the Globe-Democrat and Republic at banks are a greater danger to free in tions than a standing army, he did not mean to attack legitimate banking, or to say that the mere lending of money or dealing in credits is itself a menace to republican government.

What he denounced was political banking—the control of money and its circu lation by banks, the usurpation of the minting power, the issuance of bank notes to circulate as money.

He had studied the entire question thoroughly. He knew as a lawyer and publicist that the issuance of money, whether of bullion or paper, is the highest prerogative of sovereignty, and that whoever exercises this prerogative is sovereign. He knew as a student of history that the era of panics began with the era of corporation currency, and that the first and greatest panic of history was caused by John Law's invention of the corporation floating debt-the paper bank note—as a substitute for cash.

The system invented by Law is still the system on which all corporation paper is floated. There has been no change of principle whatever. Every corporation note for a dollar is still a John Law panic-producer as much now as when Law bankrupted France. And in the nature of things it can never be anything else. The corporation note for a dollar is a dollar of corporation debt. All the legislation in the world, all the security in the world, cannot change that dollar of debt into a dollar of cash-cannot raise the hundred cents below zero to a hundred cents above.

The banks which have their paper debt now floating in the community as money are attacking silver, but when their own notes are presented for redemption the best they will do is to offer silver for them. And this will always be the case. If gold is at a premium, no bank will ever pay its notes at that premium when it can get other lawful money to pay them in without paying the premium. The bank note must always represent merely a promise to pay the form of lawful money the bank can get easiest and cheapest. Every banker who is shouting for gold from his debtors is now busily engaged in paying out silver and silver certificates to his creditors. This is true in St. Louis, in New York, in every other city in the country.

But this is not the worst evil of the bank note circulation. If there are three hundred millions of bank notes in circulation they represent three hundred millions of floating debt outstanding against the business of the community, When stringency comes the immediate tendency of that debt is to collapse-to cease to circulate.

No system can prevent this. It is inherent in all debt and in all corporation paper representing debt.

There has never been a time of stringency in the history of this country when corporation paper stood the strain upon it. Unless the banks mean to repudiate it by "suspending specie payments" or closing their doors, as they did habitually before the war, they are obliged to contract their outstanding paper in every stringency. Unless bankers are outright repudiationists and swindlers, this contraction must take place. If they expand their outstanding debt in the face of impending panic, they take risks which are only taken by knaves or fools. But whether they expand or not, every dollar of their debt in circulation as money is a part of the over-expansion of credit which produces panic.

No circulation of corporation debt as cash can ever be made permanently safe, because it is impossible to turn a dollar of corporation debt into a dollar of cash-a hundred cents minus into a hundred cents plus-by any device known to the human intellect. It is impossible and absurd. It cannot be done. It is not even imaginable as possible. A bank note remains a debt for its face during the whole period of its circulation. It never is cash and its use as cash makes all business insecure and undermines the moral sense of the community until it breaks down the distinction between right and wrong and leads to the manifold forms of fraudulent inflation through which, in the language of Jefferson, the mouth of the worker is robbed of the bread he has earned.

Enormous as these evils are, Jefferson considered chiefly the greater evil that where banks control the issue of money they must inevitably exercise the final control in the politics as well as in the business of the country. He did not think it possible for any people to remain free where their sovereignty was surrendered to corporations who, through the exercise of the sovereign function of issuing money, control the popular means of subsistence.

Our own times show that he was right. A combination of foreign and domestic credit brokers has recently taken control of the United States Treasury and shown itself stronger at Washington than seventy million Americans. The same combination has entered this campaign proclaiming that at any cost the Demooratic party must be defeated. It insolently asserts its right to rule, and, in league with the lawless conspiracies against free production called trusts, it is spending millions to corrupt the ballot and to make impossible in America that American independence for which Jefferson dared to stand against just such a Tory combination of home and foreign plutocrats a century ago.

Can they win now? Will they win? It is for the people to say! For Democracy "has nobody on its side but the people!"

I mailed Mr. Crawford the following lette oday:

Mr. D. Crawford, City: Dear Sir—I am a gold man and shall vote the gold ticket at the coming election. I was surprised to read this morning of your action in discharging your employes. While I advocate the gold standard I also give to every man a right to think and vote as he pleases. It seems that you do not wish to do this, but propose to intimidate the man that does not pessess wealth enough to go for himself in business.

Some Queries Well Answered. To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Can you find space for the following ques-ons and answers? Is it true that in case we have free and unlimited coinage of sliver European nations will send all their sliver here and sink us under an avaianche of that metal?

No, it is not true, unless, on the hypothesis that the people of those nations are about to become lunatics or idiots. The report of the Director of the Mint, dated June 24, 1894, of having to pay it cents an ounce would have to pay it cents an ounce would have to pay it cents an ounce, would be the effect of the law. Am is the greatest silver producing count the world, and as such she can control market. He who controls the market trois the price. This is why the Ur States can set the ratio of silver to gol is to I and compel the world to recog that ratio. Instead of being according to the market. States can set the ratio of silver to gold at 16 to 1 and compel the world to recognise that ratio. Instead of being controlled by the market, the United States can control the market and fix the price of silver; and Europe must pay that price or go without the metal. Why is this so? For this reason: An unlimited demand at a given price for an article limited in its supply will prevent the article from ever going below that price. Unlimited coinage of silver, which is limited in its supply, will create an unlimited demand for it. If the Government sets the price at 18 to 1, silver will not go below that ratio, for no man will sell his silver for less than he can get at the mint.

will not go below that ratio, for no man will sell his silver for less than he can get at the mint.

Could we use all the silver in the world if by any possibility it could come to us?

Certainly. If we had all the silver coin in the world, which amounts to $4,042,700,000, it would make a per capita circulation of about $58 for our present population, and that is not too much money for the business interests of the country. France has nearly that sum per capita and France is now one of the most prosperous countries in the world.

But if silver will not flood in on us, will not gold he driven out?

No. One fact is sufficient to show that it will not. When we began to coin silver in 1879, after demonetizing it in 1873, gold began to flow into the country instead of going out, as the following figures will show: Gold in the United States January 1, 1879, $278,000,000; January 1, 1823, $358,000,000. This shows that the stock of gold more than doubled in the fourteen years after we began again to coin silver. This one fact upsets all the goldite theories on this point.

But how could the United States pay for all the silver that would come to the mint if we had free coinage?

It would not buy or pay for it any more than the miller pays for all the wheat he grinds. The latter grinds all the wheat that comes to his mill, taking out the toli as he grinds. That is what the Government would do at the mints.

Was Solomon Insane?

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. In the Sunday-school lesson of last Sunday we read the prayer of Solomon:
"Give therefore thy servant an understanding heart to judge thy people, that I may discern between good and bad; for who is able to judge this, thy so great a people?"

A Thoughtful Republican.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch;

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Bourke Cockran in his speech Monday night eulogized the "laboring class" for their "patriotic sense." I am a laborer and a Republican at that, but I desire to say that I am somewhat disgusted like nearly all laborers. The Republican newspapers in referring to us, call us the "lower classes." Why are we lower than other citizens? Is it because we have little or no money?

Truly we have been discussing among ourselves the evils of the day, and the bitter fact remains that the capitalists are reaping all the benefits, while our sufferings are constantly on the increase.

We, the laborers and small mechanics and traders and farmers, bring our small savings to the banks for safe keeping, most of us not taking time deposits. How many of the "lower class" have lost all their savings during late years through bank failures! Is it right that a bank which has on deposit, without paying interest, say, $1,000,000, be allowed to speculate with the bigger part of that sum? What would happen if all the depositors demanded their money? A failure of course, and a settlement of 25 cents on the dollar would be the best outcome.

est outcome. Suppose a number of us would ask a friend to keep our money in his strong box, and if after awhile demanding it back find that he has used over haif of it for private investments? Why, Mr. Editor, he would likely be sent to the pen. Now, why should a banker have more rights than a private citizen?

Our banking system is decidedly wrong; the bankers reap all the profits without risk and the small depositors are the losers when the crash comes. Let us have a law compelling banks to have on hand the money intrusted to them or discontinue banking altogether. One thing is certain: Our bank system as it is to-day is a menace to public welfare, and especially to the "lower classes."

Goldbug Inconsistency.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch: "Consistency, thou art a jewel." The following item appears in this morning's Globe-Democrat on the editorial page, which, although a copied item, still must voice the sentiments of the editor, and is supposed to be humorous:

A BRYAN DOLLAR. From a Florida Paper.

A colored man, sah, was working on the wharf in Savannah the other day and was paid off in silver. He put a half-dollar in his mouth to bite it and see if it was lead, and it slipped down his throat and stuck about half way down. In great alarm he ran to a surgeon and asked him to cut it out. "Can't cut that out," said the surgeon; "it's got to stay there. Say, boy, are your registered?" "No, sai; I isn't registered? "No, sai; I isn't registered the colored man. "Well, you go and get registered right away," said the surgeon, and vote for McKinley, because if Bryan is elected that half-dollar will be adollar, and then you'll choke to death, sure."

dollar, and then you'll choke to charge sure."

This is not in line with previous utterances of the esteemed contemporary and other gold standard papers, which is that if McKinley is defeated the American dollar will be cut in two. Under these circumstances, if Bryan is elected, the half dollar would be reduced to a quarter and the colored gentleman could "cough it up" easily.

Marcus Auriferous Hanna.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

There is something phenomenal in the rapid rise of Marcus Auriferous Hama to the exalled position of Republican boss. When he assumed the talk of momination and the prosecuted his work with exceeding caution, and, having unlimited boods at the command, succeeded in securing about the control before the friends of Reed and there candidates knew what he was doing Flushed by success he boldly announced his intention to control and haughtily referred to Platt, Quay and other time-honored leaders as "bables in politics." Platt and Quay were taken entirely by surprise, but they know a machine when they see it and quickly discovered that they were 'not in it," as far as the St. Louis Convention was concerned. In the party, but how to dispose of Marcus and the case of the party, but how to dispose of Marcus and the case of the party, but how to dispose of Marcus and the case of the party but how to dispo the play is not perfect and some made almost ridiculous by inapropos interpolation of songs by the star. Mr. Olcothas a light tenor voice of great purity, and he uses it so artistically that but for the absence of the temperamental quafity called magnetism he would occupy a high position among the noted singers of the day. But even a superb rendition of a beautiful ballad is hardly sufficient to excuse its being sung in a parlor by an unwelcome guest. other's death. Still, Mr. Olcott must and he does it so well that much may be forgiven him. His support is fairly good and the production of "Mavourneen" was setably good in a scenic way. "The Irish Artist" will be presented to-night.

The versatile Sam T. Jack is in evid was a good crowd in the afternoon and a better one at the night performance Sunday. better one at the night performance Su The bill is unusually varied, compris-burlesque, vaudeville and spectacul "Orange Blossoms" is the feature. It is "Orange Blossoms" is the feature. It is as naughty as it was last spring. There is an imitator in the company who impersonates Bryan. The crowd went wild when he appeared as the people's candidate. Then he came out as McKinley. There was a storm of hisses, then a lull, and the crowd yelled, "Show us Hanna! show us Hanna!" The "Show us Hanna! show us Hanna!" The artist did not have the nerve. The show winds up with the Moulin Rouge Quadrille, a red hot number from Paris.

Scott Marble's plantation melodrams "Down in Dixie," drew big audiences to Havlin's Sunday. It is the kind of play that increases in popularity as it grows older. Life in the old South is strikingly portrayed. All the pathos and all the quaint humor of the traditional Southern darky are blended in the piece. The play is well staged and the company large and capable. Mr. and Mrs. Milt G. Barlow have a refined specialty. The Florida Quartette renders plantation songs.

The pickaninnies, of course, are a strong eature. The colored contingent comprises the All-American Pickininny Band, the Car-oline Banjo and Mandolin Club and a 46tachment of the Charleston Blues. M. J. Gallagher's songs between the acts are as popular as ever Wm. A. Brady's "Humanity" comes to Havlin's next week. "Other People's Money" furnishes the an's by Mr. Hennessey Leroyle and a com-petent supporting company. The leading character, Hutchinson Hopper, is a wealthy how he gets hold of other people's money, so long as he gets it. His clerk tells him of a young heiress he is in love with, and the old man schemes out for him how to get hold of the girl and her father's money. He does not know that it is his own daughter This affords a sequence of ridiculous situa-tions which are made the most of by the star and his assistants.

Judging from its enthusiastic reception Sunday Mr. Leroyle's new play is a bread winner.

Hopkins' new vaudeville bill presented Sunday afternoon is full of unusually strong features. Josephine Sabel, who has been heard here before, has a number of catchy French songs that she sings in a fetching way. Liberati, the great cornetist, and his band is another musical novelty, while De Veaux does about the best eccentric musica remarkable acrobats and equilibrists.

ARCHBISHOP IRELAND.

The Prelate Out in an Article Denouncing Free Silver.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Oct. 12.-Archbisho reland has entered the political arena in lengthy statement, in which he espouse the cause of McKinley, and vigorously de nounces free silver. He also condemns other features of the Democratic platform especially the part referring to the Su-preme Court and that concerning Federal interference in State affairs. The latter, interference in State affairs. The latter, he calls secession and says the peril to the country is as great as that of 1851. He closes thus:

There are a hundred aspects of this question which I do not touch upon. I merely throw out some few thoughts which show reasons for my own present political faith, and which may be of some benefit to others in forming their own judgment.

I may, of course, be mistaken. But I have come to look upon the present agitation as the great test of universal suffrage and popular sovereignty. Can the people defend public honor and the institutions of the country at the polls as they have done on the field of battle? Can they be so calm and deliberate in their judgment, so careful to weigh all things in the scale of reason, and to avoid all rash experiments, that they can be trusted with the settlement of grave social and political problems? That is the question that is before us at the present moment.

Congress appropriated $64,000 for the rectification of the banks at the first two named places and $16,000 for similar work at New Madrid. The Attorney-General decided that the act intended these improvements as special appropriations. The Mississippi River Commission now declares that they are not such. The Secretary of War will finally decide. If the money is taken from the general fund $144,000 worth of improvements on the river proper cannot be made.

Many League Officials Want Sunday Racing Permitted-Sporting News and Gossip.

meets to be neid by other parties who has feel disposed to indulge in that form of the sport.

The Sunday racing question has caused the L. A. W. a great deal of trouble in this locality. The persistent efforts of the Sunday race coterie to establish the custom of Sabbath racing can not be called successful, but they have always been a thorn in the side of the L. A. W.

It is well known that some of the officers of the League who have been most active in the suppression of Sunday racing are very much in favor of having the rule against it repealed. It is a matter of record that at the last meeting of the League that Messrs. Sanders and Robert, the Missouri delegates, made a strong appeal for Sunday racing. The Assembly refused to make any amendment to the rule and all that was left the Missouri delegates to do was to go home, obey and enforce the laws. That they have enforced them so strictly, was perhaps on the old plan that the best way to secure the repeal of an obnoxious law is to enforce it.

At the next meeting of the Assembly Missouri will be backed up by the entire West. California has had the same troubles as the local officials have on the Sunday racing line. Ohio, Indiana, Iowa, Wyoming and all the other Western divisions have been similarly afflicted. They will make a strong and combined appeal to the National Assembly to ignore, if not cancion, such events.

With all this power behind it, the measure has more than a good chance of success. If passed it will work, as Mr. Sinders eays, a whole lot of good to the Missouri division.

The passage of the measure will not carry with it amnesty to those who are under suspension for violating the rule against Sunday racing. Hence it would not be wise for any rider to indulge in Sunday racing, under the impression or belief that if the rule against it is repealed his suspension will be repealed with it. As long as the rule is in existence it should be respected.

TIGERS AND TARKIO.

Two Great Missouri Teams Will Play This Afternoon.

This afternoon at 3 o'clock, at Columbia Mo., the Missouri State University Foot Ball Team will line up against the Tarkto College eleven of Tarkto, Mo. Tarkto is a recent addition to the ranks of colleges sporting strong and lusty kickers of the inflated epidermis, this being the first season to team ever aspired to achieve anything more than a local reputation. That they have strong and convincing reasons for believing they have a team that is not inferior to some that are more widely known is evinced by their decisive defeat of the Doan College team of Crete, Neb., a week ago last Saturday. The Doane team has a foot ball history, having flaunted the Nebraska State championship for two seasons, and in past years bave departed from well plowed up gridfrons with the scalps of Iowa and Kansas dangling at their belt. The beating this team received from Tarkto makes one of two facts patent: Either the Doane of this year is not the Doane of seasons past, or the Tarkto College is sending forth a remarkably strong team to do battle and win honors for her in their maiden year. Mo., the Missouri State University Foot League right and that he will have trouse with the magnates at the November meeting.

As far as the story concerns the players it certainly does Mr. Von der Ahe a great injustice. Not only did he not withhold any salary from the players, he remitted all fines imposed during the season and he could, with all propriety in the world, have collected a few of them. For instance, he remitted a fine of $100 imposed upon Third Baseman Myers for dissipation and for failing to show up for a championship game. This fine was entirely justifiable, but Mr. Von der Ahe not only remitted it, he bought Myers a ticket to his home as well.

This is only a sample case. There are others. Every man on the team was satisfied when he left the city at the close of the season and they are all eager to return. They have nothing but good words to say of Mr. Von der Ahe and his treatment of them this season.

This is all the more remarkable as in the past the St. Louis magnate has not been any too liberal with his players and his record in this line was not at all enviable. But as far as his treatment of them this season goes it has done him great credit and earned him the good will of many a man who previously had no special regard for him on account of treating his players with penuriousness.

He was suspected by H. Ryan, a member of the delivery firm, of theft.

Mr. Ryan applied at Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Johnson's office Monday morning for a warrant. He said Spaulding had been working only one day when the package was lost. A policeman said Spaulding had given himself up when he heard he was wanted; that he was of good character and had been offered a new position.

Mr. Johnson emphatically refused to issue the warrant.

"H's an outrage," he said, "that the young man should have been held at all."

The lost package contained a pair of trousers.

out the local champions in force. There are several reasons advanced for this, one of which, in free circulation in shooting circles over the river, is to the effect that because Charley Budd entered the list of contestants the St. Louis men were afraid to go against him. Another cause to which is attributed the non-appearance of the St. Louis cracks is that their recent records were made with inanimate targets and that they knew that they could not duplicate their scores with live birds. These charges may or may not be true, but that there is considerable feeling in East St. Louis gun circles over the matter cannot be denied and the outcome of the stories circulated may be a match between the best known shots living on either side of the river. Mr. J. E. Stillson of East St. Louis says if there are any St. Louis sportsmen who want a match at 100 birds they can easily be a ecommodated by addressing him.

In his lengthy opinion Judge Russell states that things carried by a crank or an eccentric person would not be considered baggage, and continues:

"It is true it has not been many years since those who, like the relator, were addicted to bicycle riding, were regarded as cranks, but his class has grown and his tribe multiplied until it threatens to include all mankind, and we are forced to accord the wheelman the average human intelligence, and we cannot say that only a crank would carry with him a wheel."

The decision applies to all railways in Missouri.

Over a Mystery. Gus Janish, a peddler, 35 years of age was carted into the City Dispensary Mon-day morning by the Third District police for examination as to his sanity. He told a weird tale to Dr. Thompson of being which a commission was appointed to procure relief funds and provide tents and other temporary shelter for homeless citizens.

Churches and schools which were left standing are filled and rough wooden sheds are being erected as fast as possible in different parts of the city.

Already over 100 charred bodies have been found in the ruins, and others are being discovered wherever the debris left by the fire is disturbed. It is now known that many persons were driven by the flames to the water and were drowned.

WHEAT.

There was quite a fight for possession of the market this forenoon, and the consequence was a very unsettled and irregular market, though showing remarkable strength in face of two very bearish items. a very unsettled and arregular market, toolign showing remarkable strength in face of two very bearish items.

One of these was the extraordinarily heavy world's shipments to Europe last week, which early were reported as 11.450,000 bu, of which early were reported as 11.450,000 bu, of which follows the strength of the light process.

This not alone indicated Russian and the Danublan countries were shipping heavily, attracted by the higher prices, but caused the amount affoat to increase 2,720,000 bu, though a year ago the increase was 5,040,000 bu.

North western receipts of the shipping heavily, attracted increase was 5,040,000 bu, against 304,000 bu, 64,200 bu arriving at St. Louis, against 91,800 bu a year ago.

Early cables held up well, with advances reported of 3d at London, both in cargoes and in Mark Lane, but Liverpool quiet, and a private cable stated latter market declined on the heavy world's shipments.

The strongest news came from San Francisco, but there was considerable buying on the Government teport, which indicated a crop of 412,000,000 bu, which generally regarded bullishly.

A later Liverpool cable announced an advance on strong Indian news, which brought forth a rally on this side, but it did not hold.

Clearances were rather disappointing, though the total in flour and wheat from four ports equivalent to 340,000 bu.

The increase of 2,318,000 bu in the visible, The increase of 2,318,000 bu in the visible, gainst the increase a year ago of 2,649,000 bu, did not weaken domestic markets.

They turned very strong on the cables, those rom the Continent being especially strong and argely higher.

The atrength in loveign markets and reports of good export buring had a buillish effect and domestic markets advanced. Trading was rather light, however, in the local market.

A light was left burning in Mr. Rozier's room, which probably accounts for that room being excepted.

As two foot prints, one very large and the other quite small, were found under a little stairway window, the presumption is that entrance was effected through it and that a child had been put through who opened the door for the person outside.

Mr. Rozier had quite a sum of money and a gold watch under his pillow. It is the first burgiary in the history of the Webster Groves neighborhood.

Another of the fine varieties of Chesse of Congress has given the Secretary of State and the State Democratic Committee a problem to wrestle with for the next few and the Congressional Executive Committee learned of the independent action a call was issued for a convention to be held at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Union Capitol Hall, Ninth and Allen avenue. The call is signed by M. M. Jodd. Secretary of the committee; A. N. De Menil, James I. Jones and James W. Settle. This convention, it is thought, will nominate ex-Councilman John J. Ganahl, a prominent lumber merchant in the South Gonday night and Tuesday. Little change in Monday night and Tuesday. Little change in

"DICK" BLAND WAS HERE.

Working Hard and Is Confident He Will Carry His District. Hon. Richard Parks Bland, the champion of free silver, spent Sunday night in St. Louis and went out to Linn, Osage County, led by Mrs. Bland, who has been traveling with him since his recent illness.

Mr. Bland has been kept out of the canvass outside of his district by fill-health and is not yet strong. But he is going through the Eighth District now and will canvass it thoroughly before election. He is confident that he will carry it by a good majority and that the State and national ticket will be supported by all silver men.

Mr. Bland has two opponents, Joel D. Hubbard, Republican incumbent, and Ed Stine Cypher, the Populist nominee.

The free silver forces in the district are well organized and are working hard.

Mr. Bland's itinerary will keep him in the campaign up to the time of election. led by Mrs. Bland, who has been travel-

Democrats can obtain tickets and orders for uniforms by applying to any of the officers of the standing committees of the Jefferson Club, or at room 420 Security Building. Application should be made at once so as to enable the committee to obtain proper transportation and the proper number of uniforms.

The committee consists of C. C. Jackson, Montague Punch, Dr. L. M. Perkins, D. Jones and Jas. M. Borton.

Stole His Mother's Clothes. Adam Schwartz is under arrest for stealing his mother's clothes and trying to pawn them for small sums of money. He was found with a shawl and a ecarf, for which he could not account, and was locked up. A short time after his old mother appeared, identified the articles and asked that her "poy," who is 35 years old, be released.

The Secretary of State Must Decide Which to Place on Official Ballot. At an early hour Sunday morning burg-lars entered the home of Mr. A. T. Rozier, Webster Groves, a traveling sent for the Dittman Shoe Co., and ransacked all of the Ing Victor Gebhardt to make the race for prominent lumber merchant in the south End.

Monday the committee selected at the mass convention certified the nomination of Mr. Gehhardt and a messenger will be dispatched to Jefferson City with the certificate. The Secretary of State will then have to decide which nominee will be recognized and placed on the official ballot.

The Gebhardt faction say that the committee lost its powers to act when it falled to call primaries for the city wards in the district thirty days before the convention. They also declare that the committee neglected its duty because its chairman and other officers have gone over to the Hannacratic party.

glected its duty because its chairman and other officers have gone over to the Hannacratic party.

Secretary Jodd, who is a deputy in Collector Speck's office, denies these allegations. He says the intention now is to put up a strong man who is in accord with the Democratic platform adopted in the Chicago Convention.

Chairman Cook of the State Committee istrying his hand as a peacemaker and hopes to have the question decided without antagonizing either faction.
